Man Those Switchboards!

By RALPH JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Giving directions to a stranger in town is sometimes difficult, but not half as difficult as manning the information telephone at the Sedalia telephone office, especially if you are from St. Louis.

That's the problem encountered by Jim LeBlanc, from the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's St. Louis offices, who is in Sedalia to help out during the current Communications Worker of America strike.

LeBlanc is an electronics data processing specialist, thus is well qualified to man the switchboard and help keep the equipment in working order. But when people begin asking specific questions about Sedalia, he will find the answer, but it will take a little longer.

This is an example of how the local telephone office is maintaining service during the strike. The walkout early this week took the regular workers in the operations and traffic departments off duty.

To fill the vacancy created by the walkout, supervisory personnel have come in from other areas — St. Louis, Kansas City, Moberly, Knob Noster, St. Charles and others. Some came in just after the walkout began, and others have been here only one day.

The switchboard positions are about all filled, with about half of the operators men and the others women. Most were generally familiar with the operation, but had to be oriented by Mrs. Genevieve Watson, local chief operator, before they took a seat at the switchboard.

Desks in the business office are empty, but local commercial manager Jack Spilker and the commercial manager from the Fulton offices were handling the bill payment window Thursday and doing other necessary things around the office. Jean Parker of Sedalia was keeping tabs on things in Spilker's office while he was busy elsewhere.

In the meantime, workers from the operating and traffic departments maintained their picket line around the building, waiting word of a possible settlement of the strike.

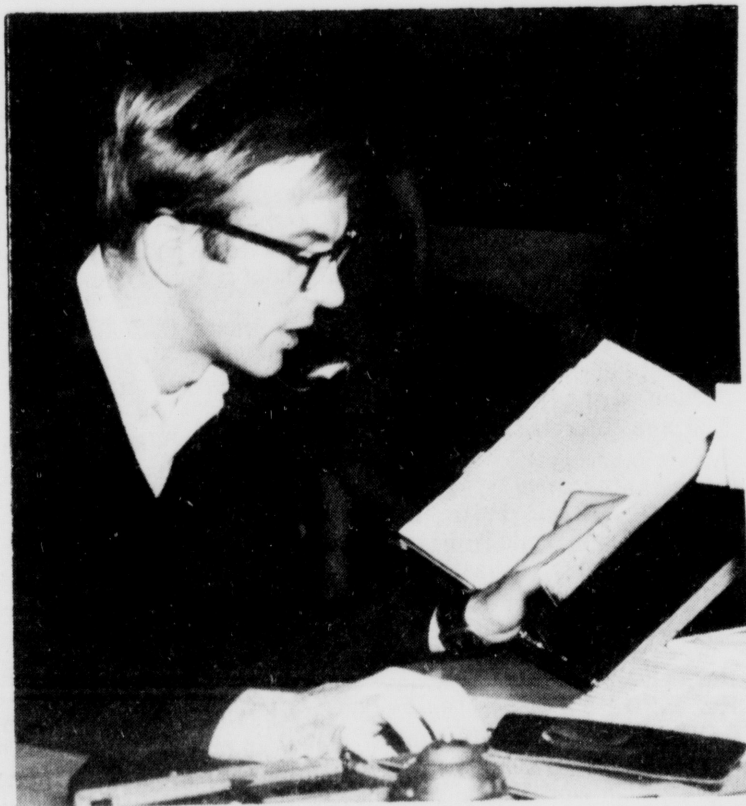

Outside work is proceeding as usual, with repairmen and other outside workers on the job.

Men Fill Vacant Seats

The switchboard at the Sedalia Southwestern Bell Telephone offices is operating at near-normal, with both men and women in supervisory capacity, many from other areas, filling the seats vacated by striking CWS workers. Under the supervision of Mrs. Genevieve Watson, chief operator, long distance calls are being processed with little delay.

Information Phone

Jim LeBlanc from St. Louis, manning the information phone at the Sedalia Southwestern Bell Telephone Company offices, will get the desired information, but he has to consult the phone book and it may take a little longer.

Advocate of Negotiated Peace Replaces Goldberg

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has chosen former State Department official George W. Ball, a strong advocate of a negotiated Vietnam war settlement, to succeed Arthur Goldberg as ambassador to the United Nations.

The sudden, surprise choice of Ball, 58, to succeed the retiring Goldberg was viewed in the capital as fresh evidence that Johnson had decided to make a determined effort during his last nine months in office to negotiate an end to the Vietnam war. Ball has made his criticisms of U.S. policy known particularly since resigning as undersecretary of state in October 1966. Thus his willingness to return to government surprised Washington circles as much as did Johnson's decision to ask him back.

Reached Thursday evening by telephone in Montreal, Canada, where he is attending a conference of an independent group concerned with Atlantic community problems, Ball said:

"The President has removed himself from the political arena so he can make decisions which would be much more difficult if he were a political candidate.

"Therefore the period that remains could be a very fruitful period."

Johnson announced Thursday at a hastily called news conference that Goldberg, 59, had resigned and would be replaced by Ball. The President said the change would probably become effective in early June after Goldberg handles "certain matters now under way" at the United Nations.

Goldberg will in fact handle the U.S. argument for U.N. acceptance of a treaty proposed by this country, the Soviet Union and Britain to outlaw the spread of nuclear weapons.

Goldberg indicated openly almost six months ago that he did not consider his U.N. position as a career. Johnson called him from the Supreme Court in mid-1965 to become ambassador to the world organization and recently he has privately expressed interest in returning to the practice of law.

At a New York news conference following the President's announcement, Goldberg said he had worked in the cause of Vietnam peace during his 33 months as U.N. ambassador. He added:

"I have resigned in the belief that I can best further these objectives in private life," he said, while acknowledging there had been Vietnam policy differences within the administration.

Escapee Captured By Patrol

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Highway Patrol today captured the second of three penitentiary inmates who tunneled out of the institution last Saturday.

Picked up without incident about 6:30 a.m. today was Murl Ray Winford, 28, of St. Louis, serving life for a murder conviction.

Trooper Jack Boillot said he came upon Winford on U.S. 63 about 12 miles east of Jefferson City. He said Winford apparently was seeking a ride out of the area.

Winford told the patrol he had not eaten anything since he left prison Saturday and hadn't had a drink of water in a couple of days.

Still at large is Alan Wilwording, 26, of Logan Grove, Ark., under a 20-year sentence for armed robbery. Raymond B. Patrick, 44, was captured Wednesday near Jefferson City.

Sidewalk Bazaar Set For July 29

Sidewalk Bazaar Day has been set for Monday, July 29, by the Downtown Merchants Association, according to an announcement made by Jim Edwards, chairman.

New Strike By Dock Employees

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of London dock workers struck again today for another march on Parliament to protest colored immigrants in Britain.

The strikers shouted down a Roman Catholic priest and Protestant clergymen who were introduced by a Communist union leader in an attempt to persuade them back to work. Scores of ships in the teeming port were left idle by the 24-hour walkout.

At Tilbury, the port's deep-water section handling liners for the Far East and Australia, only 65 of the usual 2,000 men reported for work. All work stopped on 12 liners.

Up river at the Royal Group, a meeting of 2,000 longshoremen howled down leftist opponents of the walkout who led last year's four-month dock strike, from which the port is only now recovering.

Only three men voted against the strike resolution, which affirmed the dockers' support for the inflammatory speech by Enoch Powell demanding a ban on colored immigration. Powell's speech earned him immediate dismissal from the inner councils of the Conservative party and a surge of support from workers who fear the competition of colored immigrants from the West Indies, Africa and Asia.

Henry Keeler

Prosecutor Files For New Term

Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Henry Keeler filed Friday for re-election. He is seeking his second term in office.

Keeler, a graduate of the University of Missouri Law School at Kansas City, lives at 710 West Seventh with his wife and two sons.

A Republican, Keeler was with the Central Intelligence Agency following graduation from college.

He is a veteran of World War II and saw combat duty in Germany, France and North Africa. He has been active in many civic organizations including Kiwanis, Knife and Fork Club, American Legion, the Missouri Bar Association, the Missouri Trial Lawyers Association, the American Trial Lawyers Association, and is a past president of the Pettis County Bar Association.

Keeler is first to file for the office of prosecutor this year.

No Damage Reported From Nuclear Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — An experimental hydrogen bomb, most powerful tested in the United States, exploded under a desert mesa today and sent earth-like shock waves rolling for hundreds of miles.

There were no reports of damage or vented radiation from the underground blast, despite more than a week of protests from scientists and others that the shot was potentially dangerous.

The effects of the detonation of the device 3,800 feet deep at the Nevada Test Site, 100 miles northwest of here, appeared to be just about what the Atomic Energy Commission anticipated — a rolling ground motion felt as far as 250 miles away, with no harm expected.

The shot, delayed an hour until 7 a.m. due to fears that if there were radiation leaks wind might carry contaminants off the test site, was felt lightly if at all in major cities of the west.

In Los Angeles, 300 miles away, some persons trying to detect it didn't... but others said they felt it, lightly.

To an AEC observer in a bunker 13 miles from the blast point the shock was "a pretty good roll."

In Las Vegas tall buildings swayed, as in an earthquake. Chandeliers in a hotel swung. Motion was clocked for 90 seconds. Police reported a storm of calls inquiring how serious the shock was. "We also," an officer said, "got calls after the blast asking when it was going to happen."

Seismologists reckoned the shock had a magnitude of 6.5 on the Richter earthquake scale, which rates those at 7 or more as major. A 6.5 shock is strong enough to cause damage if it occurs. (See NO DAMAGE, Page 4.)

University Gives In To Demands

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University bowed today to a militant student protest that has disrupted campus life for four days and said it would suspend construction of a controversial gymnasium.

But the few hundred—out of the Ivy League university's 27,500 students—who carried out the protest continued to sit-in at five buildings, demanding amnesty from punishment for their demonstration.

Columbia, hemmed in on three sides by predominantly white and residential Morning-side Heights, sits atop a bluff overlooking Harlem and the 30-acre Morningside Park. The gym would be built on two acres of the park, which separates the campus from the Negro community.

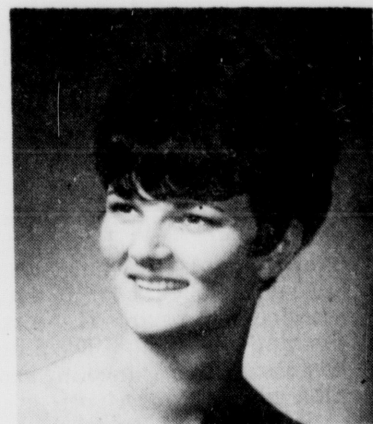

The university's decision to suspend construction—made at the request of Mayor John V. Lindsay—came in an announcement by the university vice president, David B. Truman, before a cheering crowd of 150 white and Negro onlookers gathered in predawn chill on the steps of Low Memorial Library.

Truman also said the entire university would be closed until Monday to permit further talks between the administration, faculty and Lindsay, credited by many students with averting bloodshed during the protest.

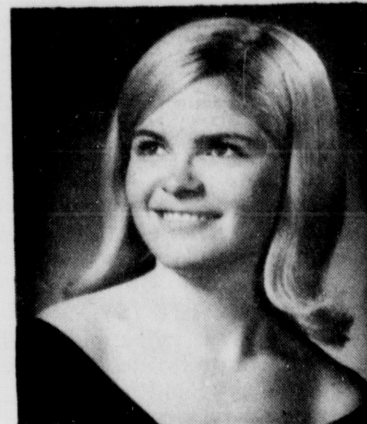

They apparently were hoping that the university also would yield to another major demand, amnesty for the demonstrators.

Estimate Of Damage Finalized

Final determination of damage suffered during the recent fire at the Knob Noster Junior High School have been set at $87,631 for the building alone. Damage to contents is to be figured separately.

The board of education, architects, Leon Maslan and V. Preston Terrell of Kansas City, local insurance agents, Milton Kendrick and Merle Matthews, met with representatives of the General Adjustments Bureau and the United Adjustment Company to negotiate a settlement on the fire loss. A scope of work and an estimated cost of replacement had been previously presented by the architects and a bid for complete restoration had been made by Jenkins & Blaine Construction Co. of Kansas City.

Most items were settled at 100 per cent of the contractor's bid but some items such as plastering, painting, millwork, hardwood flooring and roofing were depreciated from 10 per cent to 50 per cent.

The board is faced with the problem of deciding if the old building should be restored or replaced. The insurance money will be $13,000 short of rebuilding the old structure with the same type of material as was originally used. The interior was completely made of wood. A second alternative would be to tear down the old building and combine rebuilding with the new additions already planned and financed by the recent bond issue. This method would leave the Junior High short five class rooms.

A third choice would be to build eight or nine new class rooms to replace the ten. (See ESTIMATE, Page 4.)

Weather

Variable cloudiness with little temperature change tonight and Saturday. Chance for a period or two of light showers late tonight or Saturday. Lows tonight in middle 40s. Highs Saturday in lower 60s. Probabilities precipitation tonight 10 per cent, Saturday 30 per cent.

The temperature Friday was 47 at 7 a.m., and 58 at noon. Low Thursday night was 45.

Sunset Friday will be at 7; sunrise Saturday will be at 5:21.

Anti-War, Racism Strike at Schools

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Student demonstrations and boycotts spread to six colleges and at least 20 high schools in New York City today at the beginning of a one-day strike against war and racism planned on campuses from coast to coast.

Linda Morse, executive secretary of the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, predicted Thursday that some schools would be completely closed. At others, she said, there would be teachers, rallies, picketing and anti-war strikes.

In New York, the Board of Education said a spot check showed that as many as 78 per cent of students in some city high schools had boycotted classes. Students picketed at some schools, and demonstrators marched at entrances to six colleges and universities in the city.

Students at Dutchess Community College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., observed five minutes of silence at 10 a.m. in support of the strike. They voted not to cut classes.

In addition to student boycotts of classes, numerous college teachers have canceled classes in advance. Seminars on the Vietnam war, the draft and race problems were planned.

The committee sought to synchronize the strike by U.S. students with classroom stoppages planned in Europe, Latin America, Asia and Africa.

US Bombers Pound VC Forces

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers, flying some of the war's closest raids to Saigon, hit enemy targets within 26 miles of the capital today to break up Viet Cong forces believed massing for their second major offensive of 1968.

The raids came after South Vietnamese police ordered all boats and vehicles entering Saigon be searched for arms and explosives. The police had earlier thwarted a Viet Cong attempt to smuggle guns into the capital on a river junk.

Tons of explosives fell from the giant bombers on three sorties over enemy bunkers, weapons positions and troop concentrations, six to eight miles west-southwest of Ben Cat, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

Raids in February had hit targets 10 miles north of Saigon.

As fear of another attack on the capital mounted, American infantrymen combing the provinces around Saigon fought a series of small battles Thursday. Meanwhile, U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese positions in the A Shau Valley, in the northern part of the country, again and again.

There were new reports from South Vietnam's national police that the Viet Cong were bringing arms into the capital to prepare for another "terrorist" campaign against the city similar to the Tet offensive.

Police said they found 10 Soviet AK47 automatic rifles aboard a junk at Saigon's riverfront dock. They did not say if any arrests were made.

Premier Nguyen Van Loc suggested Thursday that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese might be planning another attack on Saigon to improve their military position before peace negotiations. South Vietnamese army units in the provinces around Saigon have been on 100 per cent alert all week in anticipation of a new enemy attack.

In the continuing small-scale fighting around the capital, 10 U.S. soldiers were killed and 82 wounded in actions 12 to 38 miles from Saigon.

Only 26 enemy were reported dead in the battles, and 18 of them were killed by U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers that attacked a bunker complex 25 miles northwest of the capital.

The jets were called in to help units of the 25th Infantry Division. The infantry reported the air attacks destroyed 99 enemy bunkers and damaged another 25.

While the South Vietnamese were fearful of a new attack on Saigon, U.S. intelligence officers exhibited greatest concern about the North Vietnamese concentrations in the A Shau Valley, which they said threatened the Hue area. These sources said the enemy has 15 to 20 battalions in the area and could commit them to an all-out attack on Hue "in a matter of hours."

The B52s hit weapons positions and storage areas in the valley three times Thursday night and with three more raids this morning.

Evangelists Turn Drive Overseas

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Big-scale evangelists, facing a decline of mass crusades for converts in America's urbanized, impersonal cities, are turning more of their efforts to areas overseas.

Attitudes and conditions have curbed such undertakings domestically, says the Rev. John Haggai, one of the nation's top mass evangelists, whose main project this spring is a five-week drive of preaching and teaching in Indonesia.

To people there, and in other less industrialized cultures, it's a new, imported approach.

And they're often considered more responsive to it than people in this country where the method had its origins in the big revival meetings of the last century.

Today in the United States, however, "there are not as many mass evangelists as there used to be," says the Rev. Haggai, a deft, rapid-fire pulpit orator, often described as second only to Billy Graham in the field.

"There are fewer crusades," he adds. "They are not as long as formerly. And you don't see as many men in their 20s and 30s going into mass evangelism as before."

Although he deplores the trend, and maintains steps should be taken to rejuvenate mass evangelism in this country, the Atlanta-based Haggai Evangelistic Association is shifting increased activities abroad.

That "does not mean that we are giving up crusades in this country," the Rev. Mr. Haggai said. These will continue, but in gradually lessened proportion to religious drives overseas, he said, adding:

"Jesus Christ is not a 'national god.' He said, 'Go into all the world.'"

As part of a "world outreach" program, the Rev. Mr. Haggai expects to spend a third of his time in overseas crusades this year, and by 1970, he plans to spend two-thirds of his time abroad. He also has a one-week interdenominational crusade in the National Evangelical Church in Beirut, Lebanon, May 26-June 2 and a citywide drive in San Diego, Calif., next September.

Similar patterns have developed among other prominent evangelists, such as the Rev. Bob Pierce, of World Vision. Last year, Billy Graham led only one crusade in this country, and several abroad. This month, he was in Australia.

In the post-World War II period, 20 years ago, dozens of organizations had evangelists on the road, holding citywide campaigns. Few still are operating.

Pastor's Comment

By The Rev. Jess R. Wallace
Pastor, First Baptist Church

When I was called of God to preach the Gospel and announced it to the people of my home church, I shall never forget what my old pastor said to me. Looking at me as a young man who knew very little about the road ahead as a preacher, he said, "Remember there are mountain peaks and valleys in the ministry, but it is a wonderful life." I have found this to be very true after 21 years in the ministry.

God calls His servants. The ministry is a vocation whose servants are invited or called of God. We need young men today who will listen to the call of the Lord and will heed that call. What the author of Hebrews said concerning the priesthood is equally true of the ministry: "and no man taketh this honour upon himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron." Hebrews 5:4. How does one know that God is calling him to preach? Men may help you with wisdom gleaned from the Scriptures and from experience, but only God can speak to you with finality. Get alone with God and offer yourself to Him in the spirit of "Lord, what will thou have me to do?"

God's servants fulfill a need. There are many needs in our world; but the greatest need is for men to get right with God. The preacher is obligated to deliver a message from God to man. Preaching is the spoken communication of divine truth by a divinely chosen personality with a view to persuasion. The preacher is under obligation to give himself to God and deliver a message from the Lord. There is a limit to our preaching; what we preach is not of our own composing. This message was given to the preacher. How free is a God-called preacher? He is free to preach the Gospel, God's message, in the power of the Holy Spirit. There are men in the congregation who know more about history, law and science; the preacher is to stay with the message of the Holy Scriptures.

God's servants have a reward, although God does expect his servants to go down in the valley for Him. At times it is necessary for a preacher to suffer for Christ's sake and for the building of His Kingdom. As one has said, "He who enters the ministry for a rest cure is first in need of a mental cure"; the Lord will provide strength during these times in the valley. He promised, "Lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world." The preacher must be on guard that he does not bring trouble on himself. He is not exempt from temptation and sin merely because he is a preacher. If a God-called preacher be faithful, there are many joys and rewards here now. To be an instrument in the hand of God, to bear the message of the king brings many rewards in this life. To introduce a life to Jesus has its rewards for the messenger, as well as for the new convert. For the preacher there are great promises of rewards in the future, as there are for every faithful Christian. "And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; Yes, saith the Spirit, that they must rest from their labours; and their works do follow them."

To be called to preach the glorious Gospel, what a privilege! God still needs preachers. Let us as leaders in our churches help young people to listen for that call.

They will take action on proposed pronouncements of the Assembly and deal with a variety of other proposals and studies.

Much of the annual Assembly's work will center around the Vietnam War and the crisis in the nation's cities. The denomination's role in these issues will be dealt with in the social pronouncements (Statements from the Assembly to the church at large) and in proposals for work of church agencies in the coming year.

Interests Of Actor Are Varied

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm not a do-gooder," said Gregory Peck with emphasis. "It embarrasses me to be classified as a humanitarian. I simply take part in the activities that I am interested in."

The actor was commenting on his receipt of the Motion Picture Academy's Jean Hersholt Award for humanitarian service. While he felt honored, he sought to escape any do-good connotation. That is an image he does not seek.

Peck had just been interviewed on the set of his new Western, "The Stalking Moon," by an Argentine correspondent who asked him: "Why do so many of your pictures have a social message?"

"I had to tell her," Peck reported afterward, "that of the 40 pictures I have made, only 'Gentleman's Agreement,' 'To Kill a Mockingbird' and possibly 'On the Beach' carried any kind of social message. The rest were Westerns, comedies, war pictures and straight adventure stories like 'The Guns of Navarone.'"

Despite his disclaimers, Peck in recent years has devoted an uncommon amount of time and energy to causes for which he feels concern.

Among them: The Motion Picture Relief Fund. He has been chairman of the drive to raise $15 million in 15 years to support the industry's ill and aged. Six million has been collected in the first two years.

The American Cancer Society. Two years ago he was chairman of the annual fund drive and spent four months touring 28 cities to raise $50 million.

The National Endowment for the Arts. Peck served a two-year term on the committee aimed at spreading culture through the nation.

The Inner City Repertory Theater. He has been a guiding force in the Los Angeles stage company which offers excellent productions to school children and adult patrons.

Peck also serves on the executive council of the Los Angeles Music Center, as vice president of the San Diego County Theater Arts Council, and as an adviser to the new American Film Institute, which attempts to preserve the past and promote the future of film in this country. All this plus his presidency of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

A public conscience is nothing new to Greg Peck.

"In 1948, I stood up in Gilmore Stadium (in Los Angeles) and spoke out for Harry Truman at a time when nobody thought he had a chance to win," he recalled. He has since lent his support to other Democratic candidates and causes, but he admitted, "I don't think such support does a damn bit of good."

With a wry smile he pointed out that he supported Pierre Salinger in his unsuccessful bid for the Senate against George Murphy. "I will support the Democratic nominee for president," Peck said, "but I have decided that it is a mistake to get involved in primaries."

That led to the inevitable question: Will he follow Murphy and Ronald Reagan into active politics? Before the question could be posed, Peck replied with a firm: "No." His reason: "It has never interested me."

Discovers His Son In Plane Wreckage

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Harold Vance heard a plane crash on his farm near suburban Broken Arrow Thursday. When he ran to help the victims, he found his 18-year-old son in the wreckage.

The father told newsmen he didn't know his son was going to fly until he found him in the wreckage.

The younger Vance, Bob, had just returned from Vietnam. He and the pilot, James Cook, 22, Tulsa, were listed in good condition at a hospital following the crash.

Santa Fe Reports Increases

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Santa Fe spokesmen reported increased earnings for the first quarter of 1968 and defended the railroad's curtailment of passenger service at its 73rd annual stockholders meeting Thursday.

One unidentified stockholder rose to criticize careless maintenance, and suggested that Santa Fe officers should ride the railroad more and discover what's going on.

The stockholder said he had ridden what he guessed roughly to be 30,000 miles on the Santa Fe last year and listed several faults in need of correction.

One of them he cited was this: "Coming up here on 212 yesterday, the safety catch over the door was dangling. And it has been that way for weeks. It is going to fall off and hurt somebody one of these days."

Ernest S. Marsh, chairman of the board, reported first quarter net income at $16.5 million, up 22 per cent from the $13.5 million in the same quarter last year.

The first-quarter income amounted to 61 cents a share of common stock compared to 49 cents a share last year.

TV Writer Returns To 'Tube'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Mosel, a talented, sensitive writer who quit television several seasons back for the freer, greener field of Broadway and motion pictures, will be back on the tube on May 15 with an original drama, "Secrets," the last of this season's "CBS Playhouse" series.

"I had something to say, something I thought was important, about privacy and the parts of peoples lives that they do not reveal to anyone else," Mosel said. "I think it makes an interesting play. And I also think that it is a drama with a theme that is adult enough that it would never have been produced on television 10 years ago."

Mosel, along with Reginald Rose and Loring Mandel, are among the eminent TV drop-outs who have recently been lured back to the medium by "CBS Playhouse" which not only gives its writers freedom to express themselves but also pays extra large prices for scripts.

The CBS experiment quite frankly was designed more for network prestige than for Nielsen points. And the series must be counted as an enormous success. It has already picked up a Peabody award and has been nominated for Emmys—and the three dramas shown have produced Nielsen numbers much larger than anyone dared hope for.

Wolper Productions, which have had a hand in this season's National Geographic specials on CBS and ABC's "Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" have formally protested the nominating procedures of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences which, somehow, overlooked the two series.

The Cousteau series, in particular, was an extraordinary oversight by ABC since the list of some 250 Emmy nominations included any number of documentary shows infinitely inferior to them.

John Carson will be off the "Tonight Show" for a vacation the week of May 13. His substitute will be former baseball player Joe Garagiola who has persuaded Jack Paar to return for one night.

Sick Skink and Phobias

We see by the evening paper that the Sedalia police are receiving distress calls from residents to come out and succor sick animals. One, an opossum, the police took care of. The poundmaster was dispatched to another neighborhood. The news item said the animal there turned out to be a sick skink.

Believing what we read in our favorite newspaper, nevertheless skink sent us scurrying to the dictionary, like we did checking on the word "crevicular" which we discovered is "accredited" by Webster.

For a moment we thought a skink might be a baby skunk but it isn't. A skink isn't anything except a typographical error when it occurs in print.

This brings our trend of thought to a conversation at Bothwell Coffee Shop where an otherwise erudite Sedalian commented casually about another person as "having a phobia for stirring up trouble." What he meant was that the person had a "compulsion" to agitate.

A phobia is not a compulsion it is a fear of something or a propensity to be frightened of certain things. If a troublemaker had a phobia to be such a character, then he would have a fear of stirring the pot.

For Smith-Cotton High School Seniors it is a little late to become animated in classroom discussions about such topics as phobias, but the Juniors can save it for next year.

There are all kinds of phobias, more than the average person ever heard about, these exaggerated fears which are often disabling and not usually understood by a person so afflicted.

For the record, then, here is a list of phobias some of which we never heard of and Webster ignores:

Demophobia, fear of crowds; pnigerophobia, of smothering; oikophobia, of home; misophobia, of contamination; alophobia, of pain; egophobia, of work; cheimophobia, of cold.

Achluophobia, of darkness; xenophobia, of strangers; zoophobia, of animals; thermophobia, of heat; agorophobia, of open spaces; eremiophobia, of solitude; sitiophobia, of eating or drinking; pyrophobia, of fire; ochophobia, of vehicles.

Siderodrophobia, of railway trains; kinesphobia, of automobiles; astraphobia, of airplanes; mechanophobia of any kind of machine; blonophobia, of needles; eretophobia, of pins; elektrophobia, of electricity in any form; eisotrophobia, of mirrors; graphophobia, of writing; ideophobia, of thought; arachnophobia, spiders.

Thalassophobia, of the sea; rypophobia, of dirt; hematophobia, of blood; gymnotophobia, of nudity; pternophobia, of feathers.

Anyone with a phobia—er—compulsion to research the above words please report any deviation from factuality.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Race Rumblings Stir in the South

By DREW PEARSON

GREENVILLE, MISS. — What does the south, which has seen its share of race riots, sit-ins, and bombings, think of the racial trauma experienced by big northern cities today?

I got the answer down here in the heart of the Black Belt, an area so named not because of the Negro population but because its soil is probably the blackest and richest in the United States. The population also justifies the name, for in the delta the ratio is sixty per cent Negro in the countryside, fifty per cent in the cities.

Greenville, which has that ratio, is a prosperous farming community where cotton once was king and still is queen. The city nestles below the levee of the Mississippi River, which is higher than most of Greenville's buildings. The docks where steamboats and barges once loaded bales of cotton are idle now, for the river, in all its might and majesty, cut a new channel, leaving Greenville behind.

Aside from this geographic freak, however, the citizens of Greenville are not being left behind. Four years ago, in the summer of 1964, Greenville was the headquarters of the Delta Ministry, a group of white northern preachers who carried the civil rights gospel all over Mississippi. Partly as a result of that 1964 drive, Negroes have now won their civil rights. Large numbers are registered, and vote in state and national elections. But the economic security which they expected with political achievement has not arrived.

The agricultural revolution has come to Mississippi, but not the industrial revolution. Thousands of Negroes have been put out of work by the development of cotton-picking machinery, chemical weed killers, and acreage cut-backs. The big plantation owners get subsidy payments for these cutbacks (Sen. Jim Eastland gets $129,000 annually), but the Negro either goes north to Chicago and Detroit, or he swells the ranks of the untrained and the unemployed at home.

—Hints of Violence—

As a result, and especially since the death of Martin Luther King, there has been new restlessness among Mississippi Negroes.

Greenville's Chief of Police, W. C. Burnley, one of the best in the state, has warned the city council of trouble ahead. He reported that never before had his men been the subject of bottle-throwing. He asked for more men, more equipment, and pay for police overtime.

"This is the first time in my career of 22 years that I have seen so much animosity toward me and my men," Chief Burnley told the city council. "It's only a matter of time before a serious incident occurs."

Negro leader Charles Moore, President of the Herbert Lee Memorial Community Center, objected to increased arms, warned it would lead to bloodshed.

"I am not getting out there in the street between the kids and the police so they can shoot me in the back and say I was inciting a riot," Moore said.

The white leaders of Greenville are definitely concerned and definitely are doing something. They are not interested in gloating over race problems in the north and saying we told you so. They recognize that the race problem is a national one which basically calls for better Negro training.

Accordingly they have worked out a project to take over the barracks of the Greenville Air Force Base, now empty, and use them for training projects under the Graflex Division of General Precision.

Graflex has agreed. The federal government in Washington has put up $2,000,000 subject to matching funds. The Ford Foundation has put up $500,000 to help supply the matching funds. The only party which has not agreed is the state of Mississippi.

—Governor Objects—

Here, newly elected Gov. John Bell Williams has thrown in a monkey wrench. John Bell is the rabble-rousing racist who was demoted by the House of Representatives in Washington when he bolted the Democratic party for Goldwater in 1964. He came back to Mississippi to be elected governor in a race where two moderates gave him a real battle — Democrat William Winter in the primary and Republican Rubel Phillips in the final election.

Williams, now secure as governor, has refused to go along with the attempt of Greenville citizens to give more job training to Negroes. Williams's objections are threefold:

1. The fourteen-member biracial advisory board contains some civil rights activists, such as Fannie Lou Hamer who ran for Congress on the Freedom Democratic ticket, attempting to unsettle Williams.

2. The Greenville plan calls for 25 Negro families to live in the barracks, which have been empty for six years. Gov. Williams claims this would be a "commune" and might lead to Communism.

3. Williams wants safeguards written into the contract with Graflex whereby the project would not become a staging area for civil rights demonstrations.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

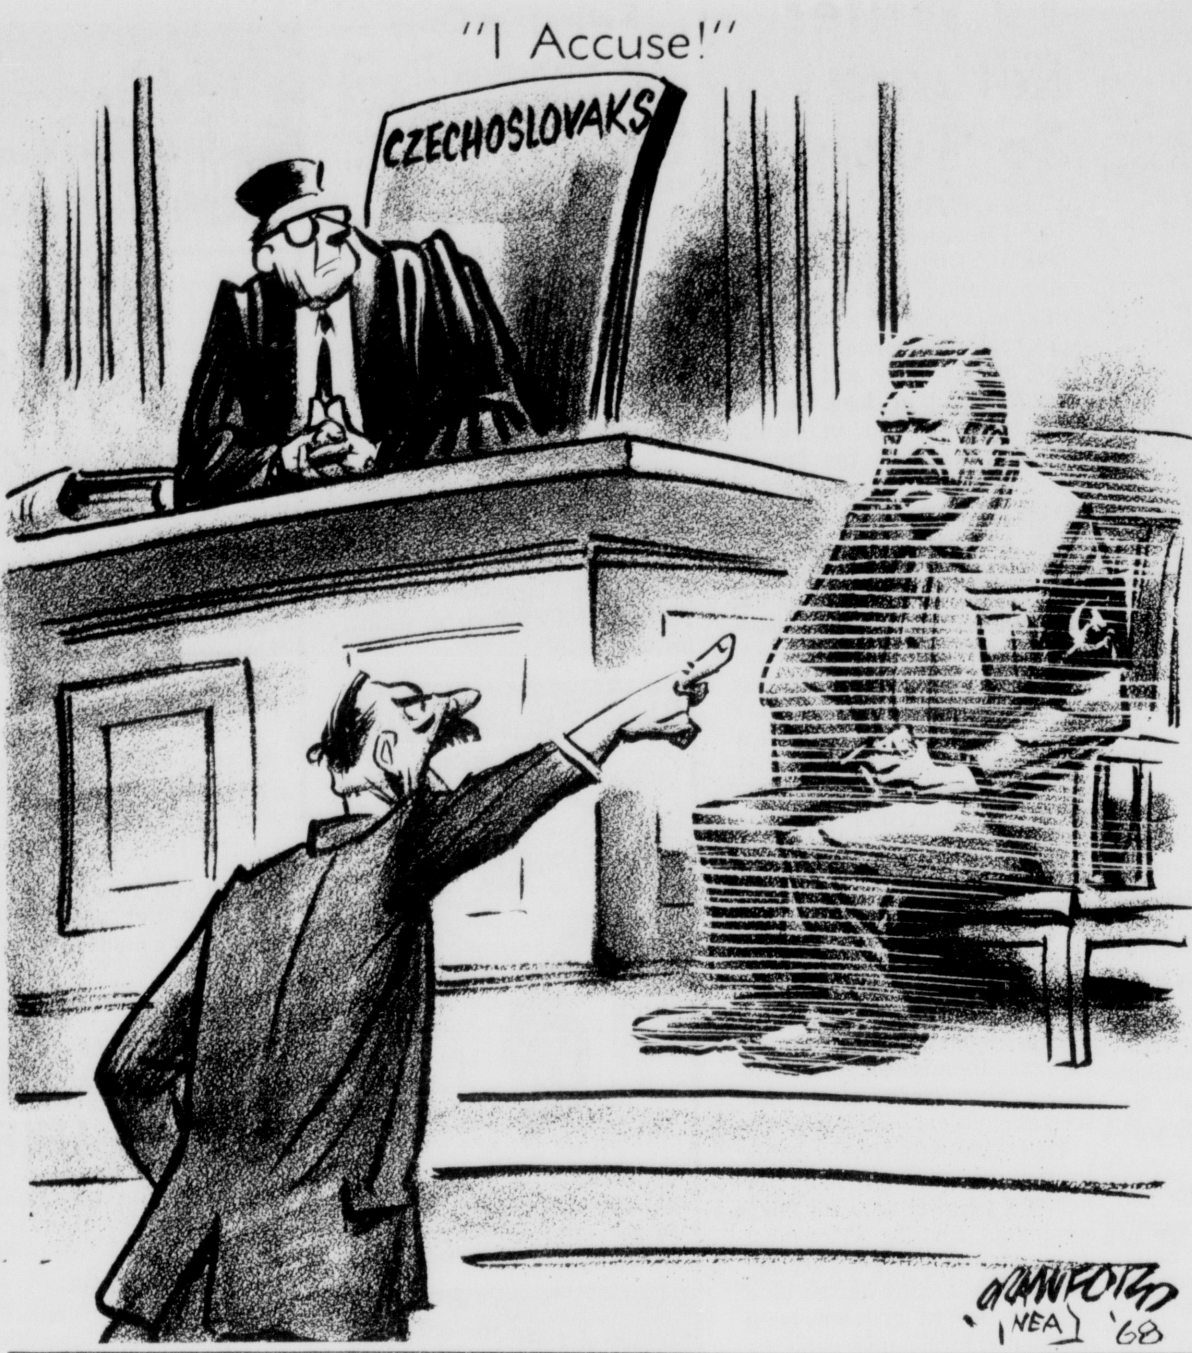

Edward Mullaley of Sedalia was elected a director of the Missouri Federation of Labor at its convention in Springfield. Reuben T. Wood of that city was re-elected president for the 31st consecutive term.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Ionia 4-H club met at the home of the leader, Miss Jewel Howe and elected the following officers: President, Gladys Williams; Vice-President, Clara Kelb; Secretary, Fern Kelb; Song and Yell Leader, Ruth Willis; Assistant, Fern Kelb; Club Reporter, Hazel Smith.

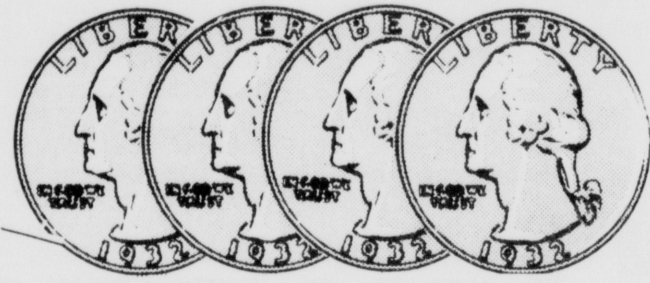

NINETY YEARS AGO

One of the Pettis county officials having business in the BAZOO office of J. West Goodwin (on Ohio street between Second and Third streets, over the Post Office), notice the "Big Injin's" No. 14 boots sitting up in one corner of the room leaning against the wall. The official could not resist the temptation to play a practical joke. He took one of the boots with "Bazoo" printed on the leg in gold and pawned it at a saloon nearby in exchange for drinks for a large crowd. An "Injin" ought to wear moccasins.

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

One Dollar - Plus

The silver crisis is still bugging the Treasury Department and it is hoped the June 24 deadline will leave the Treasury with enough silver to establish a 165-million-ounce stockpile for defense purposes.

On March 19, with the stockpile down to less than 290 million ounces, the Treasury wrote off $50 million worth of certificates believed to be lost, destroyed or held in collections.

In addition to the $150 million write-off of June 24, 1967, this leaves approximately $307.8 million in silver certificates still in circulation. From this point on the department is on its own and any further write-offs will jeopardize the silver balance.

The balance of silver is the amount not needed as bullion for the backing of silver certificates, and this write-off action, approved by Congress on June 24, 1967, provided the Treasury with an additional $200 million to up that balance.

Although the changeover from silver coinage to cupronickel coinage has been declared complete, the Federal Reserve Banks are still withdrawing silver dimes and quarters from circulation to be returned to the Treasury for melting. It is expected that some 200 million ounces will be retrieved in this manner.

Coin World reports that millions of citizens are believed to be hoarding silver dimes and quarters, hoping the ban on melting will be lifted eventually and they can realize a premium on the sale of their coins. This could happen if the power of the Silver Users Association is ever felt in Congress, but so far all legislation proposed to remove the restriction has been ignored. Some officials of the silver industry are convinced that millions of silver coins are already being melted in spite of the penalty of five years imprisonment and fines totaling $10,000 for those convicted of being in violation.

Indiscretion at the bridge table should be punished, but once in awhile it turns out to be highly profitable. Board eight of the nationwide charity game is a case in point.

East's one spade overall is a good example of indiscretion. With five high card points and a rather poor suit, East should pass quietly and let his opponents bid along.

Left to themselves, North and South would play the hand somewhere in hearts — possibly in game, more probably at two or three. West would probably open the five of clubs and South would make 10 tricks.

The bidding in the box is what took place when one East player did stick in a spade overall. South was crowded into a two heart bid and from then on there was no stopping below game.

East won the spade opening with his jack and went over all possibilities. He didn't think much of his chance to defeat the contract. It was apparent from the bidding that South held more than five hearts. Then South saw one chance that might defeat the contract or at least prevent an overtrick. It depended on finding his partner with the king and one heart.

East led his 10 of diamonds! South won with dummy's queen and saw the danger of a diamond ruff. He did the best he could to stop it by playing ace and one heart but that did him no good. West took his king of hearts and led the king of diamonds. East ruffed dummy's ace and West waited for the setting trick with his jack of diamonds.

Crime at the bridge table had paid once more.

Speculation On Rocky Is Rampant

By WATER MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Analyzing New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his political intentions is becoming a leading indoor sport. Rockefeller is sometimes the umpire, sometimes a player—and always reminding the fans it is his ball.

Is he an active noncandidate? An inactive candidate? Or a politician looking for an opening that might point him toward the White House?

That, Rockefeller acknowledges, is where he would like to go. But he's waiting to be asked.

"If the party would like me to be their candidate, I'm available," he said. "Under those circumstances, I would like to be president."

Six months ago, Rockefeller was saying he did not want to be president.

One month ago, he rejected a campaign for the Republican presidential nomination and said it was clear "at this time that a considerable majority of the party's leaders want the candidacy of former Vice President Richard Nixon."

"I am not a candidate campaigning, directly or indirectly, for the presidency of the United States," Rockefeller said March 21. He said he would answer a true and meaningful call to take the nomination but didn't expect such a message.

Ten days later, the ground rules changed. President Johnson announced he would neither seek nor accept the Democratic nomination for another term.

Rockefeller has insisted since that his position never has changed, that he always said he was not a candidate but would accept a draft. But emphasis, if not the position, certainly has changed since Johnson stepped aside.

There is a new draft organization, engineered by Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, now at work for Rockefeller. "I would say that it's gaining momentum," Rockefeller said of that effort. He said it has more people, more activity and more money now.

Furthermore, Rockefeller no longer concedes that the party's leaders are lined up for Nixon. "I think the delegates are looser than people think they are," he said.

Wasn't he moving closer to candidacy? "You said that, I didn't," Rockefeller replied to a newsman.

But he said it is possible he could become a candidate before the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach on Aug. 5. If there is to be a draft in the traditional sense, that is where it would occur.

But Rockefeller noted there are varying interpretations of what constitutes a draft. He said public opinion polls and the announced intentions of delegates might constitute evidence of a draft.

"I sense that the party is keeping itself fluid," he said.

Rockefeller says he could win the presidency if nominated, and the party wants a winner.

He has started his promised discussion of the issues, plans a May 1 speech in Philadelphia which will deal with U.S. policy in Vietnam, a subject on which he has been silent.

Rockefeller and three other Republican governors embark May 7 on a 12-state mission to hold hearings and gather information on the party's 1968 platform. That eight-day tour, from Seattle to Baltimore, could be an important outing for the New York governor.

"Why did you buy 15-watt light bulbs?" my husband asked.

"For a worthy cause," I said. "I got them from Timmy's mother because he is selling them for Cub Scouts and I want him to win."

"That reminds me!" he said, searching through his desk. "Have you seen two books of chances on a new car? I bought them from Charlie; his daughter's sorority is selling them."

"Maybe I can take the bulbs off the income tax. I won't use them, so it was giving, wasn't it?"

"Giving! Glad you said that!" He was pulling the drawers out of his desk now. "Carl gave me money for fertilizer I sold him for Stu's Boy Scouts. Where is it?"

"I didn't win the contest," Stu said. "Marvin Fuller won because HIS father sold 45 bags at work."

"Your father tried and he doesn't work in a big office like Marvin's father. Besides, he was selling Cissy's Girl Scout cookies at the same time!"

"I didn't win MY contest either," Cissy said. "Ginny won because her mother sold 58 boxes at work and 14 at bridge club."

"I'm sorry," I apologized. "You know I was busy with all the fruit cakes I had left from my club's sale."

The doorbell rang, and Rick called, "Do you want candy the high school band is selling?"

"I bought five bars from John at the office," Bob said, feverishly sorting fertilizer money from cookie money, "but I traded them to Les for four raffle tickets his nephew is selling for their church bazaar—for a color television set."

"My chess club is selling grass seed," Rick reminded us.

"It's just as well you traded the candy," I said. "I bought six bars from Myra—her daughter plays trombone."

Bob finished sorting and handed over the money to Stu and Cissy. "I guess I could sell some grass seed," he said.

"What about the card party tickets for MY club?"

"If I take them I'll have to quit my job."

Bob answered the doorbell and came back into the room with eight boxes of greeting cards. "I bought these from Mary Lee. She's selling them for her daughter's choir group."

I firmly marked Mary Lee down for three tickets to the card party. After all, one worthy cause is always worth another.

Way back in 1922, in the depths of prohibition, auto magazine Henry Ford announced that any worker showing up with liquor on his breath would be fired. Bread that year sold for five cents a loaf.

Wrist watches, one regarded as sissified by most men, became so popular as the result of their use by officers in the first World War that the traditional

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I almost wrote to you six months ago. I was having an affair and I wanted to tell you and your millions of readers what it felt like to suddenly come alive again — at the age of 32. My lover transformed me from a bored, mousy little housewife into an exciting, thrilling woman.

Today I am writing a different kind of letter. I hope other bored, mousy little housewives will learn from it.

You tell yourself you are in love with the man, although deep down in your heart you know it is not true. You blame the affair on your husband — you tell yourself he doesn't pay enough attention to you and he doesn't understand your emotional needs — that your womanly appetite for love cannot exist on the few crumbs he tosses your way.

Finally, the sneaking around and the lies start to gnaw at your conscience. You are afraid you'll say something in your sleep, or slip and call your husband by the other man's name. You find yourself taking foolish chances. You wonder if your children thought that last phone call was a little odd.

Then you notice small signs that your lover is losing interest. You begin to suspect he is seeing someone else. When you discover your suspicions are correct, you are jolted to your senses. You realize your husband is twice the man you thought he was. You suddenly wake up to the realization that he is struggling with the everyday problems of making a living and meeting his responsibilities — which is a true expression of love. And then you get down on your knees and pray he never finds out what you have done and you do everything in your power to make it up to him. — SADDER BUT WISER

Dear Wiser: Unfortunately, most people must get their lumps firsthand. They do not learn from the experience of others. For the benefit of the few who can learn, however, here is your letter.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I cannot bring ourselves to talk to our neighbors about this problem, but we want very much to help them. Perhaps if you print this letter they will see it.

This couple next door has four lovely children, two in their teens. They are good-looking, bright and well-behaved kids.

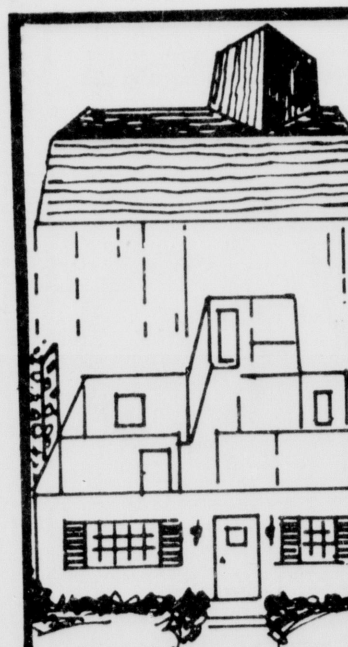

All four of these youngsters need to have their teeth

MEDINA, Wash. (AP) — Shh If you're coming through Medina, do it quietly, especially in the early hours.

The mayor of this suburban Seattle town lives about 150 feet from the freeway. The town has a sound ordinance with a prescribed top of 95 decibels from a distance of 50 feet.

Early Wednesday morning the town's lone police car set up a sound meter about 50 feet from the highway. The average level from passing trucks was 90 decibels. One from Oregon was 99 and that cost the driver $25.

straightened. It isn't just a case of four kids with crooked teeth, Ann. Their teeth protrude in such a way it's the very first thing a person sees.

We realize that orthodontics is costly, but these people are not desperately hard up for money. Parents should realize that ugly teeth can be a lifetime handicap. Surely they could make arrangements to pay in monthly installments. Will you rephrase this letter so it will not offend them, but please get the message across. Thank you. — WASHINGTON

Dear Wash: When parents do not see the need for dental care, although it is apparent to others, I always hope the child's teacher will speak up in behalf of the youngster. It is an act of kindness to do so. Don't remain silent in the hope that the neighbors will see this letter. Tell them. They may interpret your interest as interference but it is worth the gamble if it helps the kids.

Confidential to Need An Answer: The answer is as follows: A woman who has six children under 11 years of age doesn't have to go out and work. She has plenty of work at home. Your husband must have oatmeal where his brains belong.

White Sox Slump Keeping Stanky In Terrific Shape

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The White Sox still haven't won any baseball games this season, and the slump is keeping Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky in terrific shape.

Stanky spent 20 minutes walking briskly from foul line to foul line in Minnesota's Metropolitan Stadium Thursday, swinging a clubbed bat and mulling over his club's latest loss—a 3-2 touthie against the Twins.

He started his post-game stroll routine last Saturday when the Sox dropped their seventh straight. Now the streak is up to 10 for winless Chicago, and Stanky is still walking.

Expansion Slowdown Is Noted

CHICAGO (AP) — The American League, which made tracks over the National League in expanding to 12 teams for 1969, now is slowed down in those tracks.

The Nationals were miffed when the Americans voted last winter without mutual consultation to admit Seattle and re-treaded Kansas City to membership next season.

It forced the Nationals to advance their expansion plans, originally targeted for not later than 1971, to 1969 also. They now are pondering the selection of two new cities from among San Diego, Milwaukee, Dallas-Fort Worth, Buffalo and Montreal.

The Nationals will meet in mid-May presumably to vote on the two new franchises.

Until this is done, the Americans consider themselves stymied in their decision to split their league in two six-team divisions next year with playoffs to determine the circuit's pennant winner and World Series representative.

At an American League owners' meeting Thursday, President Joe Cronin said that the brass wants divisional play in 1969 but scheduling action has been delayed pending the National's move.

"It would be difficult if we went ahead with a division set-up not knowing what the National's two new teams will be—or even if there will be two new teams," said Cronin. "So, in deference to the National League we took no action on the length of a 1969 schedule or composition of the divisions."

"We will have representatives meet with the National League before its May meeting mutually to iron out problems we all are cognizant of. The American League then will meet on May 23 in Chicago to consider further plans for 1969."

Neville started the top of the third with a base on balls and was advanced to third by Nash who came in for Robinson. Dalton walked and Williams bunted bringing Neville in. Nash was then put out while in the hot box between third and home. Dalton then stole third and came on home on a wild pitch bringing Williams around to third. Williams then went into home on a balk and Robertson went to second. Boehne got a double which brought in Robertson. On a pass ball Boehne went to third and Gerlecz grounded out. Thomas then received a double bringing in Boehne. For the third out Pirtle hit to short stop.

The bottom of the third found Northwest scoring one run when J. Coffett brought in Brownfield.

The top of fourth started with one out as Neville fled out to center field. Greene and Dalton walked, and Greene advanced to second on a wild pitch. On another wild pitch Greene advanced to third and Dalton to second and Williams walked. Robertson then brought in Greene and Dalton in with a single. Williams advanced to third and Robertson to second and Boehne struck out. Gerlecz then singled bringing Williams to home.

Thomas started the top of the fifth with a fly out, followed by Pirtle who also fled out. Neville then got a base on balls and stole second. Greene then walked. Dalton hit to short stop who threw the ball to first baseman who dropped the ball and Neville came in and scored. With a hit out to left field Williams brought in Greene and Dalton. To end the fifth Robertson grounded out.

Northwest received their last run in the bottom of the sixth with Thomas singling bringing in Martin. This run made the final score 12-4 with both teams unable to score in the seventh.

The winning pitcher for Sedalia was Pete Greene and Thomas was the losing for Northwest.

Penalize Wichita
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wichita State was penalized by the Missouri Valley Conference Thursday night for football recruiting violations, and only the prompt action of school officials prevented more serious penalties.

Norvall Neve, Valley commissioner, made this clear as he fined the school $1,500 and banned it from NCAA-approved bowl games for two years.

In Thursday's only other game, the Chicago Cubs whipped Atlanta 5-2 as Ron Santo poked a pair of home runs. All other major league teams had the day off.

"How am I holding up?" Stanky said, repeating a newsman's question. "Great."

Then he strolled off to the trainer's room to lie down for several more minutes.

It was the kind of loss that required long meditation. Chicago ace Gary Peters allowed just three hits—but all of them in a row in the third inning when the Twins got all their runs. "The way we're going," Peters said, "you make one bad pitch, and it costs you."

And what made it even tougher for Stanky to swallow was that an old teammate from his New York Giant days was the hero for the Twins.

Rubber-armed Al Worthington came out of the bullpen and saved Jim Perry's victory. Worthington loaded the bases with none out in the seventh on two singles and a walk, then struck out Pete Ward, Tommy Davis and Russ Snyder, retiring the side.

The Twins' three-run rally started with two out when Perry walked on a 3-2 pitch. Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva followed with doubles and Harmon Killebrew singled.

White Sox scored twice in the fifth when Peters, Ken Berry and Ward singled and Davis delivered a sacrifice fly.

Chicago left 11 runners on base and one manager in the outfield.

Santo's two homers drove in three runs and supported Ferguson Jenkins' seven-hitter as the Cubs trimmed the Braves.

Atlanta's only runs came on homers by Bob Tillyman and Felipe Alou.

Santo connected with the bases empty in the fourth against Ken Johnson and then sparked a three-run rally with his second shot in the eighth.

Hooker Hood Will be Highlight At Races

Defending national quarter mile track champion, Hooker Hood of Memphis, Tenn., will be leading the entry field for this Sunday night's race opener at Sportsman's Speedway in Marshall.

"The Tennessee Tornado," who was as swift as his nickname would imply while capturing the national event on the Marshall oval last July, has informed track owners Ralph Bowlen and David England, that he would be on hand this weekend to accept the challenge of local and area drivers.

There will be many new super modifieds, "B" cars, and semi-late model stocks on hand for the nine big events of the night. Gates open at 6 p.m.; time trials commence at seven o'clock and the first race event gets underway at eight o'clock. If the extra large crowd present last Sunday afternoon for the car tryouts is any indication, then there should be an overflow in the main grandstand this Sunday night. The track management and officials are naturally hoping for a break in the weather conditions too.

Much work has been accomplished on the banked dirt track and to the infield area since the close of the last season and with these major improvements should come some of the exciting speed duels that could be in record-shattering proportions.

Expected to be strong challengers for the hard-driving southerner, Hooker Hood, are Roy Hibbard of Marshall, Jim Jenkins of Gilliam, Don Cooper of Sedalia, Kenny Harper of Carrollton, Bob Ford of Marshall, and Boonville's Roy Cary who is moving up from the "B" car competition. Cary waged a terrific duel last year for the "B" car point championship with Steve Shultz of Sedalia.

Co-owner Bowlen himself, plans to unveil and drive a new semi-late stock car in competition himself this Sunday night and reports are that there will be a number of these semi-late model stocks going strong in events especially provided for them, and under new rules and regulations.

The guaranteed purse at Sportsman's Speedway has been hiked this year to ensure the appearance of top area drivers.

Sportsman's Speedway in Marshall will continue to operate throughout the spring, summer, and early fall months on Sunday nights. Time trials will lead off each Sunday night program at seven o'clock.

Montreal Goalie Gump Worsley makes a save on shot by Bobby Hull (9) of the Hawks in the first period of the Stanley Cup game Thursday in Chicago. Other players are J. C. Tremblay (3), Geiles Tremblay (5), and Ted Harris (10) of the Canadiens. Montreal is winning the best-of-seven series 3-0. (UPI)

S-C 'B' Golf Team Downed By Clinton

The Smith-Cotton High School "B" Golf Team hosted the Clinton squad Wednesday at Elm Hills Public Golf Course and was defeated by a 232-221 total team score. Medalist honors went to Paul Barber and Dean Hargrave of Clinton who tied with nine-hole scores of 40.

Other match scores were as follows: Ray Austin, S-C sophomore, was defeated by Barber of Clinton by a 46-40 score; John Carrier, junior, lost to Hargrave by a score of 47-40; Jim Labahn, sophomore, was downed by Kennedy with a 51-45 score; Mike Richards, senior, tied Dennis with a score of 44-44; and Rick Thompson, sophomore, defeated Summers with a 54-44 score.

Announce Finals

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Davis Cup inter-zone tennis finals will be held here June 7-9, officials of the Olde Providence Racquet and Swim Club have announced.

Directors of the club voted Thursday night to accept an invitation of the U.S. Davis Cup tennis team to hold the inter-zone finals here.

The U.S. team, to reach the interzone finals, must defeat the British West Indies and then Mexico.

Klover's Performance Brightens Track Meet

Paul Klover, Smith-Cotton Freshman tracker, took five first-place honors in a dual meet with the Jefferson City Jays held Wednesday afternoon at Jennie-Jaynes Stadium. Despite Klover's efforts, the S-C Frosh were unable to draw enough total points to win the meet, losing it by a three-point margin, 56 to 53. The Tiger squad also took two their first place positions along with five second place finishes.

In the eight grade contest the S-C Tigers were overwhelmed by the Jeff City Jays. The Bengals were unable to take any first-place honors and took only five second place positions. At the end of the twelve-event match the Jays were on top 80 to 20.

She Puts Oven Shelves To Several Other Uses

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I always enjoy the column. When we know things can be done faster and easier it proves that house-keeping need not be a drag.

My Pointer concerns the many uses I have found for my seldom used lower oven shelf. I remove it and put it on the floor to drain wet boots on. I put newspaper or an old rug under it and figure that if it can withstand 500 degrees of heat a little water cannot hurt it. Also an oven shelf over a box (weighed down with a brick or rock) will provide a temporary shelter for a small pet. The open shelf top lets air get in but the animal cannot get out.

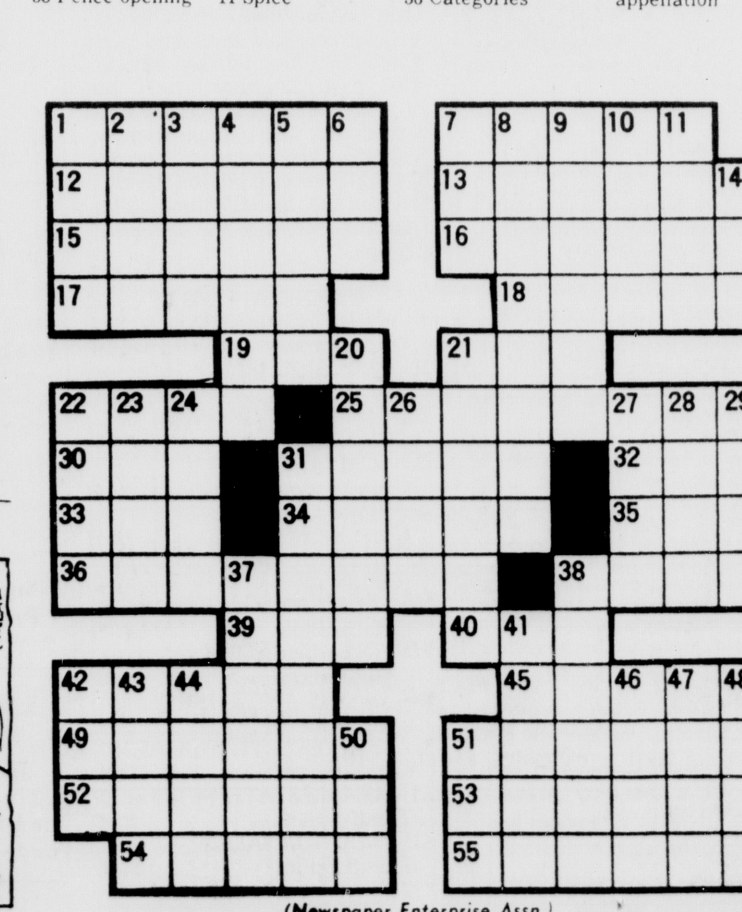

The oven shelf can be removed before baking starts and be used to cool the cake, cookies or whatever you may be baking. An oven shelf put over one side of a double sink can be used for draining freshly washed lettuce or even dishes. (Polly's note—Be sure it is secure before trying the dishes bit.) Such a shelf will fit in the bathtub (be careful not to scratch the porcelain) and used as a sweater dryer. Wash it off and return to the oven after any of these uses.

I am a new mother and I find a beach towel is wonderful for drying my one-year-old after his bath. I wrap him in it, sit him on my lap and dry him. I stay dry and he gets dry quicker. I also keep his bath toys in a plastic basket which has holes in the side and a handle (like an Easter basket). I put basket, toys and all in the tub and, when the bath is over, leave them there to drain.—MRS. R. S.

Pull Out and Save

IN THE NEWS

CLERMONT, Fla. (AP) — Cape Kennedy scientists have a reputation for being able to solve stupendous problems in short times. But one cropped up recently that took two weeks to crack: find a hill in Florida.

The Army was ready to test a new truck developed to lug the Pershing missile from battlefield to battlefield and found that the government demanded a hill-climbing test.

Project officials, after more than two weeks of scanning the flat Florida peninsula, finally found Scott Street in the citrus town of Clermont. It just barely met the 20-degree slope specification.

As one bystander cracked, "In Florida that's a mountain," but the new truck climbed it all right.

Part Owner

The British government had no part in the building of the Suez Canal and bought none of the original stock. In 1875, by purchasing the shares owned by the Khedive of Egypt, England gained part control.

Latest Cosmos May Be A Test

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Thursday announced launching of a new Cosmos in terms that might mean it was the first test of an orbital bomb system since the United States declared this country seemed to be developing such a weapon.

It simultaneously announced another launching of an unmanned spaceship on a new type of orbit whose purpose was not explained.

Robert S. McNamara, then U.S. secretary of defense, disclosed the suspicions about a Soviet orbital bomb system at a Washington news conference Nov. 3. He said it could become combat-ready in 1968.

As described by McNamara, the system would consist of a nuclear warhead launched into a low orbit, from which it would be dropped on its target before the earth had been circled once.

Diplomatic sources here said afterward the Soviet Union was believed to be using its Cosmos space program as a cover for testing the system. They said that as of then 10 tests seemed to have been made.

The feature of these Cosmos flights which caused them to be suspect was that no orbiting time was given, as for others in the series. This suggested they were brought down before completing one orbit.

The last Cosmos with this feature to be launched was 187, on Oct. 28. It also had the characteristic low orbit, averaging about 100 miles from the earth, which McNamara said indicated a weapon test.

The Soviet Union announced Thursday the launching of Cosmos 218, giving no orbiting time. The announcement said the Cosmos reached a maximum distance from the earth of 130 miles and a minimum distance of 89 miles, and moved at an angle of 50 degrees.

This was similar to the flight pattern for other Cosmos believed to have been testing warhead re-entry.

The announcement on Cosmos 218 said only that it was carrying out space research and gave no specific mission.

Still No Agreement On Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese representatives met again Thursday in Laos without coming to agreement on a site for preliminary peace talks.

But the fact that the North Vietnamese charge d'affaires in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, invited the U.S. ambassador over for a 30-minute chat was seen here as a possibly hopeful sign of Communist interest in breaking the deadlock.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey predicted Thursday that "in a very short time a place will be agreed upon for the preliminary talks."

Humphrey, speaking at Oxford, Miss., forecast success for peace negotiations provided both sides have the will for a peaceful solution.

It has been more than three weeks since Washington and Hanoi first publicly proclaimed their readiness for direct talks. But so far the opposing sides have bogged down in argument over where their special envoys should meet.

Proclaims May 1 As 'Loyalty Day'

Mayor Ralph Walker has declared May 1 as Loyalty Day in Sedalia.

In his proclamation, the mayor noted he concurs "with our national and state leaders in praising the concept of Loyalty Day, and in active implementation of that special patriotic day."

The mayor urged citizens, schools, churches and business establishments, as well as private citizens, to fly the flag and participate in patriotic activities sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other organizations.

Would Destroy Racism

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Roman Catholic Bishops from throughout the United States embarked Thursday on an extensive program aimed at eradicating racism and implementing a social action program for the poor.

"This obviously is going to take the rest of this century," said Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh as he discussed an 11-point summary of the social action report of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. The report was released as the bishops ended a three-day meeting in St. Louis.

The full report of recommendations will not be released until later, but the points called upon individual dioceses to back local open housing ordinances and take "other specific steps to dissolve the ghetto."

The report's summary urged the maintaining and improving of existing ghetto parochial schools with diocesan subsidies. Bishop Wright said this also meant that where possible vacant parochial schools might be loaned to public schools for education in ghetto areas.

Rickover Points To Excessive Profits

WASHINGTON (AP) Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover has charged again in closed hearings before a House committee that many corporations doing defense contract work are making excessive profits and that the Defense Department is both unwilling and unable to stop it.

He also charged that profits reported by defense contractors are often substantially lower than the profits they make and that excessive profits are hidden by bookkeeping procedures.

In the period 1964 to 1967 profits on defense contracts rose by 25 per cent over 1959-63. Rickover told the House Banking and Currency Committee on April 11.

Although the committee voted this week to make Rickover's testimony public, it has not been published.

Sedalia Police Must Be Part Zoo Keepers

It was beyond the call of normal duty Thursday, but Sedalia police were on the spot when two not-quite-so-usual animals became sick.

The first call at 6:35 a.m. sent the police to the 900 Block of West Morgan, where a sick possum was found. They removed the animal.

Later the police received another call for a sick animal and dispatched the poundmaster. The animal turned out to be a skunk. It was removed also.

Deputy Sheriff

Gravois Mills—Mrs. Fay Williams, deputy sheriff of Morgan County, who "sort of drifted into police work," said that she liked law enforcement work better than when she started. As far as Mrs. Williams knows, she is the only full-time, regularly paid woman to hold such a position in Missouri. She became a special deputy four years ago, and was advanced to her present status last Jan. 1. Mrs. Williams regularly wears a uniform and carries a .38-caliber revolver. (UPI)

Direct Distance Dialing Helpful During Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1947, the only other time the nation has suffered a countrywide telephone strike, the long distance operator often asked you if the call was an emergency—and made you spell out just how urgent it was.

Today, more than a week after the current strike began against most of the vast Bell system, you don't have to prove an emergency to the operator because, for most calls, you don't even need an operator.

The difference is DDD. There is disagreement over the effectiveness of the present strike, with company spokesmen insisting the strike is not hurting much and union spokesmen insisting the company is being hit where it hurts most—in the greatly expanded business use of the telephone.

But both sides agree that things are much different today because of DDD, the Direct Distance Dialing network that AT&T calls the world's largest special purpose computer.

In 1947, only about 60 per cent of the telephone system had dial telephones even for local calling, and there was no distance dialing. Today the dial network, started in 1952, hooks up with about 91 per cent of the nation's telephones.

The DDD network, says AT&T, is so flexible that it can handle virtually any emergency involving unusual circuit loads.

The far flung computer is composed of 12 regional switching centers connected to sectional switching centers, which in turn connect with primary switching centers, which channel calls into local toll centers in each community. The centers are connected by 300,000 long distance lines.

When you pick up the telephone and dial an area code, you are telling the computer what section of the continent you want. The next three digits tell the machine what exchange you want, and the remaining four digits say to the computer: "This is the telephone instrument I want."

The computer is programmed to seek the most direct route, but if that route is busy it will try another and another until it finds a path to the telephone you want. Usually this takes less than 10 seconds and you are un-

Kansas City's Rioting Toll Is $915,000

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Damage to property during recent civil disturbances in Kansas City was estimated at $915,000 by a city inspection team Wednesday.

In a report given to various city officials, the inspection team said damage occurred at 312 locations, mostly in the inner city area which is predominantly Negro. Major fires made up 79 per cent of the damage, according to the report.

The most frequently looted business establishments during the April 8-14 period were liquor stores, taverns and grocery stores.

Fire, health, finance and public works employees of the city comprised the inspection team. Adjusters for private insurance companies also added to the data compiled.

aware of the machine's searching.

For example, if you are in Wichita and want to call Phoenix, as soon as you dial, the computer tries the regular, direct route between the two cities. If it's busy, the electronic brain will try a route from Wichita via San Bernardino, Calif. to Phoenix. If that's tied up, the computer will try Wichita-Kansas City-Phoenix. Its next choice would be Wichita-Kansas City-San Bernardino-Phoenix.

and the final choice would be Wichita-Kansas City-St. Louis-San Bernardino-Phoenix.

In the rare cases when the computer's choices run out, you will get a "no circuit" tone—a signal faster than the usual busy signal—or will hear a recorded voice telling you to try the call again in a few minutes.

Network managers, says AT&T, can find an "almost infinite" number of routes for calls when normal routes are jammed.

Hearnes Files For Renomination Bid

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Democratic Gov. Warren E. Hearnes filed for re-nomination Thursday, confident the people would accept his record and make him the first Missouri governor to succeed himself for a second full four-year term.

On the whole, he told a news conference after he filed, he thought his administrations record has been good — "good enough for the people to accept in November."

When his prospective November opponent, St. Louis County supervisor Lawrence K. Roos, filed on the Republican ticket last Monday, he was asked what he thought about the possibilities of a tax increase. Roos said he would spell that one out during the campaign.

Asked a similar question, the governor said the state will be faced with the problem of meeting increased demands in the next four years and "I doubt if

Deficit In Monthly Trade Is Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's plan to cut $3 billion from the international dollar drain this year suffered a severe jolt Thursday when the Commerce Department reported the first monthly trade deficit in more than five years.

Imports exceeded exports during March by $157.7 million, the first merchandise trade deficit since January of 1963 when there was a $101-million deficit during a longshoremen's strike.

The report underscored what to date has been the sourest note in the program President Johnson outlined on New Year's day to stem a dollar outflow which reached $3.57 billion last year.

Part of the program envisions a $500-million improvement in the trade surplus which traditionally has been a plus factor for the United States on its international books.

The trade surplus last year reached $4.1 billion but for the first three months of this year it dropped to an annual rate of only $731 million.

Officials attributed the poor March showing largely to an 11-day longshoremen's strike in New York City but also cited the recently ended copper strike and the threat of a steel strike as other factors swelling imports.

They look for a surplus this month.

Possible Enemy Move Foreseen

SAIGON (AP) — Allied officials warned Thursday of possible enemy offensives in two critical areas — the far north and Saigon. And a clash in the central highlands pointed to another danger point.

U.S. concern centered on the A Shau Valley, the gateway from Laos to the old imperial capital of Hue and other northern cities hit hard in the enemy Tet offensive last February.

With intelligence reports indicating 20 enemy battalions within striking distance of Hue, 25 miles northeast of the A Shau Valley, about 2,000 South Vietnamese paratroopers have moved into blocking positions.

Striking out southwest of Hue, the paratroopers have not run into serious opposition but have destroyed 10 North Vietnamese trucks and seized 330 pounds of dynamite since swinging into action last Friday, a government communique said.

The U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division in a directive warned its officers they should expect a high level of enemy-initiated action soon in the north. It said intelligence reports have indicated an enemy offensive would begin in late April or early May to coincide with the rice harvest in the north.

The objective could be Hue, Quang Tri, the provincial capital 40 miles northwest of the old imperial capital, or other northern cities.

B52s with their great bomb loads have been daily pounding the A Shau Valley, seized by the North Vietnamese two years ago and converted into their greatest supply base in South Vietnam.

This constant hammering, repeating the blows the eight-engine bombers delivered to enemy positions when Khe Sanh 50 miles north was besieged, presaged a possible allied drive into the valley.

In addition to menacing Hue, North Vietnamese troops also are operating around Quang Tri. South Vietnamese troops supported by U.S. helicopter gunships reported killing 40 North Vietnamese Wednesday east of Quang Tri.

The warning of another enemy attack on Saigon came from the National Police Directorate.

"The Viet Cong is preparing to recommence on the capital the terrorist acts which it perpetrated during Tet — criminal arson, massacre and so on," the communique said.

It added that the Viet Cong were slipping arms and explosives into Saigon.

Girls Ready to Compete In Miss Sedalia Pageant

The curtain will go up at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium to mark the opening of the annual Miss Sedalia Pageant.

This Jaycee-sponsored event is the official preliminary to the Miss Missouri Pageant, the next competition for the young lady selected to represent Sedalia for the year.

Eight girls will compete for the Miss Sedalia title. They are Nancy Gray, Pam Mark, Barbara Markmann, Kathy Page, Merlie Strode, Judy Templeton, Carole Turner and Sharon Waterfield.

In front of a set decoration of Main Street, the girls will appear in a Suitcase Parade of Entrants for the first number. Competition in talent presentations, swim suits and ball gowns will follow. Continuity numbers will be presented by former pageant winners.

Four qualified judges will select the winner. They are Mrs. Norma Claar, Kansas City, producer of TV commercials; Miss Diane Stephenson, modeling instructor from Springfield; Harold McAnich, president of Jefferson College, Hillsboro, and Fred Davis, president of State Fair Community College, Sedalia.

The judges will interview each of the entrants before a luncheon at Bothwell Hotel on Saturday.

At 2 p.m. Saturday there will be a Miss Sedalia parade in downtown Sedalia, featuring entrants in open top automobiles, the judges, former Miss Sedalia winners and the Sedalia Shriners Scooter Corps.

A. T. Dorsey, master of ceremonies, will open the show by introducing former pageant winners.

Pam Price, Miss Sedalia for 1967, will crown the new Miss Sedalia. David Curry, Jaycee president, will present scholarships which have been donated by local business firms. Mrs. Rosalie DeLozier will be the organist.

Following the pageant, a reception will be given backstage.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Fire Destroys Shoe Warehouse

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Shoe Warehouse on South U.S. Highway 65 Wednesday night, and did several thousand dollars damage to the one-story metal building. The fire was discovered shortly before 9:30 p.m. by Mrs. R. B. Christensen and Ray Heineman, security officer, just as they were preparing to leave.

Mrs. Christensen, who with her husband is the owner of the Shoe Warehouse, accompanied by a friend, Mrs. Ruth Johnson, and Heineman, had just left the building when Heineman detected smoke and the fire was discovered.

Mrs. Johnson went to Vic's Package Liquor store next door and had the County Fire Department called from there. The alarm was received at 9:25 p.m.

On arrival, Assistant Chief George E. Brown radioed for Fire Chief R. D. "Bob" Sisemore to assist him and Fireman Sherman Howard. He also requested assistance from Whiteman Air Force Base and the Hughesville Volunteer Fire Department. Fire was at the rear of the store building, but flames had already started spreading toward the front.

When the fire truck ran out of water, Brown attempted to back the truck out and go to a water hydrant behind the Holiday Inn, but the electric brakes locked and a rear axle was snapped in two. Brown then had Deputy Sheriff Don Stratton drive him to the county fire station, where he had hoped to get the Civil Defense truck started, fill the 500-gallon water tank, and return to the fire. But this truck would not start.

In the meantime, one pumper truck with 500 gallons of water and a utility truck of the department arrived on the scene with seven fire fighters, followed by the Hughesville truck with five volunteers. Twice these two trucks went for water before it was decided to lay a 2½-inch hose from the fire plug up the highway. Hose was pulled from the county truck, and between the two departments there was enough to reach the fire. The Whiteman truck parked a short distance away and pumped water on to the fire.

As a result of the lone line of hose, enough water was available to battle the flames, but not before the shoe merchandise had been destroyed. Fire broke through the roof in several places, but was quickly contained, however it spread along the ceiling of the building, burning insulation and wooden portions of the structure. The fire was brought under control shortly after 2 a.m. Thursday.

The Salvation Army arrived about 1 a.m. with a trailer and served the cold and tired fire fighters coffee and doughnuts. During the fire Deputy Sheriff Stratton requested Ewing's ambulance to come to the scene and stand by in case it was needed. Russell Conn, Jr., Civil Defense director, and several of his men helped fight the fire.

Fire Chief Emmett Vaught and Assistant Chief Willis Jabas went to the scene and gave assistance. Vaught directing the out-of-town fire departments to the fire hydrant on Highway Drive just north of 32nd Street.

Accidental Chuckles

The National Safety Council, whom we usually hear from in connection with dismal statistics of deaths and injuries, gleefully reports a lighter side to the accident picture in 1967.

Consider the shock of a locomotive engineer in Dimmocks Cote, England, when a strange, frantic face peered in his windshield. The train had smashed into a truck at a grade crossing 300 yards back, wrapping the truck's cab around the front of the engine. The driver, only slightly injured, had climbed up onto the engine.

Then there was the woman in Moline, Ill., who tried to help a neighbor push a small foreign car. She jammed her big toe into the tailpipe. Firemen cut her loose from the car but it required doctors at a hospital to free her toe from the pipe.

Another lady in Rockford, Ill., rammed into a car ahead of her. Her attention had been distracted by a third wrecked car displayed on the courthouse lawn as a safediving reminder.

And how about the 8-year-old kid in Rock Hills, S. C., who had the unique experience of being struck by a falling meteorite and surviving? Seems he tripped and fell against his teacher's desk at school, jarring off a sample fragment of meteorite which bounced off his noggin.

Finally, there was the middle-aged gentleman in Friedrichshafen, Germany, who, gazing open-mouthed at a passing mini-skirted beauty, was abruptly brought back to reality by the sound of his false teeth splashing into the waters of Lake Constance.

Favor Auto To Hit You

If you have a choice between being hit by a golf ball and being hit by an automobile, pick the automobile (all other things being equal, if that's possible).

A study of verdicts in personal injury suits by Jury Verdict Research, Inc., of Cleveland, Ohio, indicates that juries apparently feel that anyone indulging in a sport does so at his own risk.

They are more inclined to favor the defendant (the one who caused the injury) in such cases, since less than half the injured parties recover a money award.

Least favored are golfers and baseball players. Only about one out of five of these win their suits. Water skiers, swimmers, bowlers and horseback riders have a somewhat better chance.

But in any kind of sport accident, the research group found, awards are generally less than for a similar injury suffered in a traffic accident.

Ominous Overtunes in Berlin Riots

—Rostow's Role—

On April 19 Pearson and Anderson reported that the chief official who is trying to throw a monkey wrench in the Hanoi peace talks is presidential assistant Walt Rostow. They gave details.

Next day the New York Times carried a front-page story regarding a split in the administration over the Hanoi peace move in which it reported that "Walt W. Rostow, the President's special adviser on national security matters, is convinced of the need to take a 'hard line' and apparently persuaded President Johnson."

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — There are some ominous comparisons between the student riots in Berlin and the racial riots in the United States. Though the causes are not the same, the overtones are identical. They add up to the fact that when there is a breakdown in law and order it leads to a breakdown in government, eventually to revolution.

In the days of the Weimar Republic, during that period following Germany's defeat in World War I, there were burnings and violence by the right directed against the left. Such left-wing revolutionaries as Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Kiebknecht were killed, and Walter Rathenau, a moderate, was shot. Eventually violence became a way of life in Germany and led to the Nazi takeover.

Today the violence taking place in Germany is from the left. Its origin, however, is not as important as the fact that a relatively small group of students is determined to make violence the order of the day, just as a small group of Negroes in the United States is making violence the order of the day.

In Hitler's day the Communist advocates of violence quickly became Nazi advocates of violence. It was a simple matter for the Communist party to merge into the Nazi party. Their principles of force and totalitarianism were the same.

Likewise in America, force and violence exercised by the Negro minority could lead to a revival of the Ku Klux Klan and Fascist terrorism by members of the white majority.

—Attack on Free Press—

Recently in Berlin more than 2,000 left-wing students have been rioting against the West German newspapers of Axel Springer on the trumped-up charge that the Springer newspapers inspired the attack on their leader Rudi Dutschke, a follower of Mao Tse Tung, who was shot by a Nazi sympathizer, Joseph Bachmann.

The Springer newspapers happen to be the backbone of a moderate, free-enterprise, Democratic West Germany. Axel Springer, their publisher, has been a staunch defender of the Jews. In recognition of his championship of religious and racial tolerance, he was given an honorary degree by Brandeis University in Boston.

Die Welt, the New York Times of West Germany, was actually founded by the British Army.

Farmers Will Be Hard Hit If U.S. Restricts Imports

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — While riot and war have taken the nation's attention, it has been edging toward a new economic isolationism which could plunge it into bitter combat over world trade and damage particularly its export market for farm products.

If Congress should yield before even just a few of the many import quotas proposed in such fields as textiles, dairy items, shoes, glass, electronic goods, oil, steel and other metals, the prospect would be prompt, severe retaliatory tariff moves by countries which today import large amounts of U.S. products.

Though some agricultural commodity groups are pushing the new protectionism, the fact is U.S. farmers generally stand to be very hard hit if Congress throws up quota barriers and they are matched abroad.

Farm exports come to nearly $7 billion a year and could rise to $10 billion or more by 1980. Tariff reductions abroad, planned under the Kennedy round of tariff negotiations, could come to 25 per cent on farm items and provide a big U.S. export boost.

With the U.S. farmer a numerically diminishing political force, all too little appreciation is being shown for his increasing dependence upon export markets. But the figures are astonishing.

More than 60 per cent of U.S. wheat is shipped abroad, some 50 per cent of its soybeans, 50 per cent of rice output, 35 per cent of its corn, almost a third of its tobacco, a fifth of cotton and barley.

Markets overseas for these products have more than doubled in volume and value in the last dozen years.

In Kansas, North Dakota and Montana, some 30 per cent of total farm income is ascribed to exports. Illinois, Indiana and North Carolina draw a fourth of their farm income from overseas sales. Texas, Ohio, Washington, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and South Carolina find exports accounting for a fifth of such income.

Some largely industrial states nevertheless realize big returns from farm commodities. In dollar terms, Illinois, for instance, is the country's biggest farm exporter—$666 million in 1967. California and Texas stand even with $485 million each.

Some 78 million acres, about one-quarter of the nation's harvested acreage, today are, in effect, set aside for foreign outlets. Should even just some of those outlets be closed off, many U.S. farmers—and their regions—would be in serious trouble.

The National Planning Association's Agriculture Committee sees the situation in very dark perspective on a worldwide plane. In a recent report, it said:

"The tightening of present quotas could lead us down a road of retreat from the important gains we have made during the reciprocal trade era of the last 33 years.

"In these three decades, the United States has consistently worked to broaden the opportunities for international commerce . . . lowering world trade barriers has led to . . . economic growth, and . . . has supported a rising level of consumption among (major trading) nations."

The battle, of course, is not over. On May 7 in Washington a new co-ordinating council of Organizations of International Trade Policy holds a conference to fortify opposition to the new protective wave. But the staggering thing is the force the wave has developed with so little public notice.

The opening event of each national bridge championship is a nationwide charity game in which players all over the country play the same hands. These hands are predeal by computer and, since each player is competing against his own group, the top score for the country is likely to go anywhere and usually does go to some small town.

This does not mean that the hands aren't tests of expert skill. Board No. 7 found East-West vulnerable and North-South not vulnerable, with West invariably starting with a spade pre-empt. When West started with four spades, North would double for business. South would leave the double in and, assuming any reasonable defense, West would make his own eight tricks and go down two for minus 500. He would be unhappy, because 500 is more than the value of a nonvulnerable game, but it would not be a total loss.

The bidding in the box shows how a mere three-spade opening by West leads to a diamond slam by South.

West will open the king of spades and, while South won't like his slam contract, he should make it.

The play isn't really very complicated. He must win the spade lead and play a trump. West will show out and South will have to decide to end-play West if he wants to make his contract. The end play develops if South plays dummy's ace and king of hearts and times the whole play so that he will ruff two of dummy's hearts and eventually play out all dummy's trumps in order to wind up with the jack of spades and ace-deuce of clubs in dummy and three clubs to the queen in his own hand.

West will be down to the queen of spades and king-jack of clubs, and South will throw West in with the king of spades. West will have to lead a club and South will make his slam.

No prettier tree in all the world is grown.
The dogwood with four rounding petals, notched
Around which is a bit of color splashed.

Governors Can't Agree on Choice

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic governors have affirmed what their Republican counterparts had been proving for 18 months: Apparent political power and the ability to use it are two different things.

The 26 Republican governors and the 24 Democrats have been unable to create consensus among themselves on a presidential nominee for their respective parties.

The Democrats talked about it in St. Louis April 15 and got nowhere. Republicans chose more fashionable retreats for their disagreement—White Springs, W. Va., Jackson Hole, Wyo., Palm Beach, Fla.

There are individual commitments to candidates in each party, but no one has welded a governors' bloc of major benefit to a single candidate.

It's possible many governors can't exercise total control over their national convention delegates.

Democrat Harold Hughes of Iowa acknowledged this difficulty. Hughes, a Senate candidate, said people supporting his candidacy include Democrats backing all three top contenders for the nomination, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

A McCarthy agent put it more succinctly: "If Hughes comes out for Bobby our kids in Iowa will go after him."

Hughes evidently is not alone in that situation. His Democratic gubernatorial colleagues, feeling the pressure for presidential commitments and hoping to ease it, were generally delighted to adopt a statement in St. Louis promising decisions of conscience on the White House contest—but not right now.

Similarly, Republican governors in June 1967 advocated that uncommitted delegations be sent to the GOP convention.

Texas Gov. John B. Connally and Calvin L. Rampton of Utah, both Johnson allies, were two of the men who asked that the Democratic governors meet in St. Louis earlier this month.

Behind their request, it appeared, was a concern that with President Johnson out of the race, there might be a gubernatorial rush to the Kennedy camp. Administration loyalists wanted to slow things down and insure that Humphrey support was not foreclosed even before he announced his candidacy.

But there was no rush to Kennedy.

A small minority of the 26 Republican governors has been trying to line up presidential commitments among their colleagues almost since 1964, with an identical lack of success.

Like the Democrats, the Republican governors have consistently denied they are out to stop anybody in the presidential race. In their case, anybody means Richard M. Nixon.

So far, the governors have been true to their statement. They haven't slowed down the Nixon drive, and they haven't started one for anybody else.

Soothing Preparations Will Relieve Dermatitis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What causes dermatitis and how does it develop? How can I get rid of it?

A — There are several kinds of dermatitis or inflammatory skin disease. The commonest are eczema or allergic dermatitis and contact dermatitis. Most forms of dermatitis start with redness of the skin and itching or burning. As the disease progresses, papules and blisters may develop. Scratching may cause crusting and, if the disease becomes chronic, the skin may become thick and scaly. Common causes of contact dermatitis are exposure to poison ivy and other irritating plants, and various dyes, tars and oils used in industry.

Many cases of dermatitis are kept going by overtreatment, applying irritating home remedies or excessive washing with soap and water. In addition to finding and avoiding the cause, a soothing preparation, such as Lassar's paste, or an anti-inflammatory product, such as hydrocortisone cream, are used to relieve symptoms and permit healing.

Q — What is dermatitis herpetiformis? How does it affect a person? What causes it and is there any cure?

A — The cause of this chronic skin eruption, characterized by grouping of the lesions, is unknown. It may, however, be aggravated by eating iodized salt, chocolate, nuts, fish and pork or by taking bromides. In some victims, the lesions are accompanied by general peppiness and a low fever. They may clear up spontaneously, only to return later. Various drugs, including sulfoxone and sulfapyridine (both prescription drugs), may be beneficial. They control, rather than cure, the disease.

Q — My doctor prescribed Meti Derm Cream for a rash under my arms and on my chest. How effective is it? Would it have any bad side effects?

A — This preparation is very effective in relieving acute inflammations of the skin. Side effects are rare but it should not be used to treat tuberculous skin lesions, ringworm, chickenpox or other viral skin diseases.
